ROBBED OF PAYROLL.

Four Men Jostled Clerk in Hallway—Notorious Thieves Nailed With Cash.

Harry Maurer, 21 years old, employed by Philip Slevinger, an electro plater at 213 Centre street, was held up by four men in the hallway yesterday and relieved of $180, the payroll for the shop. He was sent to the Peoples Bank, at Canal street and the Bowery, shortly before noon to draw the money. When he entered the hallway of 213 Centre street to return he found four men there. Just exactly what occurred young Maurer seems unable to tell, but the police say it was the same old game that is usually worked in such cases. The four men fell into an argument and blocked the hallway. Maurer was shoved about, and during the process relieved of his roll. He happened to feel for his money when the men suddenly left and missed it. He ran to the street and saw two of the men walking up Centre street toward Canal. He gave chase and raised a cry of "Stop thief!"

Policeman Naton of the Mulberry street precinct joined Maurer and ran toward Canal also. They caught up with the men at Canal street as they were about to board an eastbound car. Naton and Maurer nailed one of the men, and the other jumped off, but ran into the arms of Detective Sergeants Kinsler and Dugan.

The men were taken to Police Headquarters. They said they were George Douglas, 36 years old, of 1329 Third avenue, and Fred McGuinness, 30 years old, of 1603 Second avenue. The money was found on McGuinness.

Both men are old time crooks and have their pictures in the rogues' gallery. Douglas, whose real name is Darcy Doyle, is number 1749. He has only been released from Sing Sing a short time and has served many sentences here and in Boston and Philadelphia. He is a member of the Whyo gang, a notorious band of holdup men, nearly all of whom are now serving time.

McGuinness is number 2349. He has a record as long as Douglas's. He is a member of a family of crooks. He has four brothers with pictures in the rogues' gallery.

WOULD BE SUICIDE WILL LIVE.

Eleanor Little Recovering Rapidly—Her Home in Pittsfield.

Eleanor Little, who tried to kill herself Friday with gas in the boarding house at 49 West Ninety-fourth street, was so much better yesterday that the superintendent of the Wood Wright Hospital said she could leave there in a day or two. Miss Little is a prisoner, charged with attempted suicide.

No one involved at the boarding house yesterday for her and no friend visited the hospital.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 18.—Miss Eleanor M. Little is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Little of this city. Her father is or a list at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, and the composer of several operas. She left Pittsfield about four years ago, going to Albany intending to become a nurse, but left the training school and went to Boston to study massage. She is a talented musician. Her father, after telephoning to the J. Wood Wright Hospital this afternoon, said he would not go to New York.
